

MENOSGADA - Mittsommer

Menosgada.

That's the name the Greek geographer and mathematician Claudius Ptolemaeus gave to the mighty Celtic 'oppidum' on the upper Main, which perished in the fog of Germanic invasion.

Now, MENOSGADA returns as one of the hottest newcomers Viking/Pagan Metal has to offer. In the winter of 2003/04, Michael Koch started writing songs that featured both melodic Black/Death Metal and Scandinavian folk musik. Together with old bandmates and a fantastic new singer he created the band's debut „Mittsommer“ ('mid-summer') during the course of 2006.

Folky as Finntroll ('Mondtanz'), epic as Equilibrium ('Das Opfer') and guitar-dominated as Ensiferum ('Mittsommer'). The best parts of Viking/Pagan Metal join for a unique sound that reaches its climax in the powerful 'Das Horn' – a sound which perfectly fits the tales of history and northern folklore the band tells. Sit down and listen to Leif Erikson discovering Vinland and brave vikings laughing at the threat of Ragnarök.

A detailed history of the band, as well as lyrics and further extras, can be found at www.menosgada.net.

The album is now available at www.menosgada.net, costing only 5 Euro (plus shipping).
